Crimson Plays a Magnificent Game, and Carries Yale Off Feet

CUTTS ALLOWED TO PLAY BY HARVARD

Two Touchdowns and Goal From Field Made by Harvard in First Half. 35,000 People See the Game. Field Slippery and Cold Rain Falling

GAME UNFINISHED.

SCORE: HARVARD 22, YALE 0.

Cambridge, Nov. 23.—The field was slippery and footing uncertain when the game began.

Harvard won the toss and took the east goal, playing with the wind. Yale had the ball.

Olcott kicked off at 2:06. After a few minutes playing in which Harvard made gains through the tackles, Blagden of Harvard, made a touchdown, Cutts kicked goal.

Score, Harvard 6, Yale 0.

Olcott kicked off to Marshall on Harvard's ten yard line, ran to the 27 yard line and Kernan punted to Yale's 45 yard line. De Saullies punted to Harvard's 44 line.

Then began a series of great gains by Grayden, Blagden, Cutts and Ristine to Yale's ten yard line.

Yale made a desperate stand but Harvard gained by yards. The first down was directly in front of the goal. There was no gain for the first try. Then Ristine made a touchdown on a revolving play on the tackles, but there was not an inch to spare when the ball went over the line with Yale's team on top of him. Cutts kicked goal.

Score: Harvard 12, Yale 0.

Harvard then did great team work ending with Harvard's ball on Yale's 30-yard line.

Marshall kicked a goal from the field.

Score: Harvard 17, Yale 0, at the end of first half.

The Second Half

The men lined up for the second half at 3:03 with no changes in either lineup. After a few seconds playing De Saullies was laid out and appeared badly hurt. He was replaced by Metcalf. Harvard then began a series of gains by Cutts.

Harvard soon scored again. Harvard 22, Yale 0.

GREATEST CHEERING EVER

Crowd of 35,000 Keeps Warm With Songs and Cheers. The Preliminary Scenes

There were 35,000 enthusiasts in their places to see the game when the two teams lined up on Soldier's field this afternoon at 2 o'clock for the great game.

A cold, raw wind was blowing and cold rain was falling steadily.

The crowds began to arrive early so as to avoid the final rush for places. All the morning special trains and elevated road trains has been pouring forth from Boston and the facilities for handling the were as nearly perfect as has ever been the case. The weather did not improve as the time for the game approached and the crowds shivered until the beginning of the cheering and singing by the students began to enliven things.

By 1:30 all the students were in their places and the cheering squads began their work under the leadership of seniors and graduates.

The cold air was soon ringing with the songs written for the game and cheers filled all the time between the songs.

Harvard's singing was pronounced the best ever heard at a football game. When it became known that Cutts was to be allowed to play there was mighty cheering and every Harvard man let loose all his enthusiasm. All then felt that the game was practically won and Harvard cheering took on a more confident note.

As the two teams ran into the field and began their preliminary warming up, the entire crowd rose and in a mass and cheer after cheer such as was never heard here before rent the air.

Soon after this the teams lined up for the opening of the game

Cutts Allowed to Play

The athletic committee met all this morning and discussed the eligibility of Cutts, the big Harvard right tackle whom Yale protested on the ground of having taught physical culture at Harvard college.

Many persons were heard regarding his work done, and shortly after noon the committee announced that Cutts would be allowed to play.

This left the lineup unchanged from that expected. It was as follows:

GIGANTIC TRUST FOUND IN GERMANY

Is Responsible For Germany's Control of World's Sugar Market

London, Nov. 23.—The British sugar magnates assert that their investigations have revealed the existence in Germany of a great trust called the "Kartell."

This has existed about a year and it is chiefly owing to its agency that the price of sugar has been forced down to the lowest point in history and Germany is today enabled to dictate to the world the price of that commodity.

The abolition of this organization has been one of chief objects of the nations other than Germany in attending the forthcoming Brussels conference.

JAPAN'S GREATNESS DUE TO THIS COUNTRY

Official Historian Says Commodore Perry Was Nation's Liberator

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Dr. G. M. Mitzen, instructor in the university of Japan at Tokyo, returning from Europe and about to write an official history of the Japanese nation, says the United States will be given practically all the credit for the greatness of modern Japan, and that Commodore Perry will be lauded as that country's liberator.

TRAINS CRASH

Wreck This Afternoon Just West of Little Tunnel

PASSENGER AND FREIGHT MET

Wrong Signals the Cause. No One Seriously Hurt. Williamstown Man in Baggage Car Cut. The wreck Caught Fire

A crowded passenger train from the west, due in this city at 1:08 this afternoon, collided with a freight train that was standing on the east bound track at 3:15 this afternoon, and a disastrous wreck resulted.

The passenger train was two hours late.

One man, Mr. Steenburg of Williams town, who was in the baggage car, was badly out and bruised, but none were seriously hurt.

Three men in the caboose of the freight jumped and were uninjured. The engineer and fireman of the passenger stuck by their engine but were not badly hurt.

The wreck caught fire from the engine, and the fire department was called out, and the fire extinguished in about half an hour.

The freight, which was east bound, was standing on the main east-bound track. The engine was in the little tunnel, and the rear of the train just west of the gas house. Why it was standing on the main line with a passenger train due, and the passenger not signalled, remains to be determined.

The engine of the passenger was number 1129. The train was in charge of Conductor J. J. Putnam, Engineer C. A. Noyes and Fireman C. A. King. When the engine struck the caboose it turned over on its side beside the track.

The caboose was demolished, and two freight cars, loaded with small rolls of paper, were broken open and the rolls distributed beside the track.

These caught fire from the engine, and blazed fiercely for a time, until the fire department was summoned.

It was at first reported that two men were missing, but this proved untrue, and aside from the bruising and shaking up of the passengers, no one was hurt as far as is known.

The passenger train was quickly drawn away from the scene of the wreck by an engine, and the wrecking crew sent for. Both tracks are now blocked.

Cause of Wreck

Trainmen of the freight train say that they had placed torpedoes on the track to warn the passenger train and that a flagman named Dadine had been sent back.

Others said the torpedo signals were for the passenger to go ahead, and that the flagman had been called in.

The wreck occurred on a sharp curve. The engineer of the passenger train says he saw no signals.

ATTACK ON PANAMA TO BE MADE SOON

Colon, Nov. 23.—The latest news obtainable here is to the effect that the Liberal general, Lugo, has arrived at Empire station, distant about 12 miles from Panama, with a force said to number 1000 men.

The Liberals are gaining and arming many recruits along the entire length of the railroad and now control the line up to within a point two miles from Panama. An attack on that city is expected momentarily and much uneasiness is felt.

The Liberal leader, Domingo Diaz, it is expected, will shortly arrive at Colon. It is rumored that Buena Ventura (a Colombian port on the Pacific coast about 400 miles south of Panama) has been taken by the Liberals. Confirmation of this report is lacking.

Marines from the gunboat Machias still guard the station and property of the railroad here. The battleship Iowa will land forces at Panama when the necessity arises.

The Liberals here have already given notice that the advalorem duty on goods disembarked at Colon will henceforth be 10 percent, not 20 percent, as formerly. All the stores in Colon are open and business has been resumed.

The Colombian gunboat General Pinzon is believed to be along the coast somewhere near Colon, for when she left here she was short of coal.

Transit across the isthmus is still free and uninterrupted.

No Interference Unless Necessary

Washington, Nov. 23.—The answer of the Colombian government to the representations of Consul General Gudge, to the effect that the government was unable to guarantee the integrity of the railway communication across the isthmus, was purposely developed in order to make perfectly plain the fact that the United States was thoroughly justified in landing its forces at Colon. With this formal acknowledgement from the Colombian government of its inability to maintain communication, it becomes, it is said, not the privilege, but the duty of the United States, under the treaty of Granada, to guarantee that communication, even though the use of force is necessary. It is not intended to interfere between any factions. Conservative or Liberal, unless a faction places itself in the position of obstructing the purpose of the United States to keep the Panama railroad open to free traffic.

Equipped For Colombia

London, Nov. 23.—The steamer Banrigh, which was detained here this week by the British authorities on the suspicion of her being a Boer filibuster, has been released and will proceed to Hamburg. A member of the vessel's crew is authority for the statement that the Banrigh will proceed thence to Colon, where she will be used by the Colombian government as a gunboat.

BIG STORM COMING FROM THE SOUTH

Williamstown Accident Cases Go Over to February, Buckley-Hunter Case

The attention of the superior court at Pittsfield yesterday was occupied with cases of no interest to North Adams. Several cases will go over, among them being the 14 cases against the town of Williamstown brought by North Adams parties, which were scheduled for the present sitting. The attorneys for the town want all of them tried together to save expense, especially as they involve the same issue, while the lawyers for the plaintiffs object on a technical point. The case of J. R. Weitbaumer and another against J. H. Levin and another of Adams, has been settled, and the case of Patrick Buckley against the James Hunter machine company, tried two years ago and still pending, is likely to be settled out of court. In the case of Henry Bechard against Nelson Beechard the defendant was defaulted.

Aldrich Won the Cane

The contest for the gold headed cane arranged by the North Adams band was concluded last night and the cane was awarded to Joseph Aldrich. The returns were rather small. Tonight the band will give another dance in Odd Fellows hall.

CAUSE OF DEAFNESS

The Most Common Cause Only Recently Discovered

It has been stated on good medical authority that nine-tenths of cases of deafness are caused from catarrh or from sore throat trouble. The little tube which leads to the ear from the throat is lined with a sort of velvety structure called mucous membrane. This membrane is simply a continuation of the mucous membrane lining the throat. When this case of any sort attacks the mucous membrane of the throat it is very liable to extend into the Eustachian tube and up into the ear. The history of nearly all cases of deafness is like this; a cold is contracted and neglected, other colds are taken, the throat becomes sore and inflamed, which is aggravated by particles of dust and germs from the air. This condition causes the disease to spread into the tube that leads to the ear. It seems a little far fetched to say that most cases of deafness are caused from catarrh, but it is certainly true, and any one who has had a severe catarrhal cold must have noticed how the hearing was affected while the cold lasted. With catarrh sufferers this impairment of hearing becomes chronic and grows worse the longer the catarrh is neglected. You can cure catarrh and deafness by the regular use of an excellent new preparation called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, composed of antiseptic remedies which act both on the mucous membrane and principally and most effectively on the blood, eliminating the catarrhal poison from the system. People whose hearing is defective may think it a little remarkable that a simple and harmless tablet would very often remove all traces of deafness, but when it is remembered that catarrh causes the deafness and that catarrh is easily cured by the regular use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets there is no mystery about it. If you are subject to nasal catarrh or catarrh of throat, bronchial tubes or catarrh of stomach and liver, the safest and most effective treatment is the new catarrh specific, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, sold by all druggists at 50 cts. for full size package.

A WOMAN'S LETTER

Telling of Unexpected Help in Time of Need

I will quote you a part only of a short letter—a woman's letter and women always write better letters than men. They tell more truth and in a simpler way. "In September of 1899," she says: "I found myself nervous and low spirited. My appetite was gone and even after the lightest meal I suffered from flatulence and nausea. The doctors gave me soothing medicines and tonics but they had no effect. It was all I could do to walk, and in the open air I was soon fatigued and exhausted. In January, 1900, I read about a new medicine, Calcaura Solvent, in our local paper, and concluded to try it because it was discovered by Dr. David Kennedy. One bottle relieved me very much and when I had taken the second I was able to eat heartily, and early in April I was as strong and as well as ever. How thankful and glad I am any one can imagine. If your druggist is out of Calcaura Solvent, send $1.00 to Dr. David Kennedy, Kennedy Row, Kingston, N. Y.; express prepaid. Write for free sample bottle.

Eight Lives Probably Sacrificed

Bluefield, W. Va., Nov. 23.—At 11 o'clock yesterday morning a party of eight officials entered the west main of the southwest Virginia Improvement company's collieries for the purpose of examining the true situation in regard to the recent explosion and fire in the Baby mine and they have not since been heard from. At 6 p. m. a party consisting of experienced miners entered the mine to rescue the lost party, but at 6:45 they returned, having encountered such quantities of black damp to make it impossible to enter any distance into the mine. All efforts are being used to rescue the missing party, but no hopes are entertained that any of them will be recovered alive.

Governor Accused of Falshood

Pittsburg, Nov. 23.—Speaking of his removal from office by Governor Stone, Recorder Brown said: "The charges against me contained in the statement of Governor Stone's are unqualifiedly false. Letters in my possession show this. The specific charge is made that I have repeatedly violated the new charter by the removal of men from office for political reasons. That charge of the governor's is without the slightest foundation in truth."

Champion Wrestler Retires

New York, Nov. 23.—Ernest Roeder defeated Nohad, the Turk, last night in a Greco-Roman wrestling contest for the championship. After the result was declared Roeder announced that he would retire from the wrestling ring.

HENRY J. MAXWELL RETURNS TO CITY AND MAKES TROUBLE

Recently Released from Jail, Italian; Got into Trouble After a Christening Where There Was Beer

Henry J. Maxwell, whose record in the local police court is already rather lengthy again made his appearance this morning after an absence of two years from the city. Last time he was up on charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace. The disturbance occurred early this morning at Cummings' boarding house on Union street, where Maxwell's wife was visiting during their stay in this city, their home at present being in Albany. Maxwell had been drinking all the evening and about 3 o'clock in the morning made his way to the boarding house. As soon as he was let in he began to make things unpleasant, and before he got through had beaten his wife unmercifully. Mrs. Cummings' father tried to get out and call the police, but Maxwell objected, and the old man finally had to make his escape through a window. He soon found Officer Goodrow, who returned with him to the house, placed Maxwell under arrest and took him to the police station. This morning Mrs. Maxwell appeared in court a mass of bruises, but would not testify against her husband. He was fined $6 for drunkenness and the case of disturbing the peace was continued until Monday.

Two years ago Maxwell was tried by the superior court for attempted rape on his little niece in this city and served 18 months in jail for this offense. Since his release he has lived in Albany, and this is the first time he has visited North Adams since he was bound over to the grand jury by the local court.

The Joseph Gentile assault case was in the nature of much ado about nothing. The case was called at 9:30 and at 11:30 it was continued until 2:30 in the afternoon because one of the commonwealth's witnesses was not present. Lawyer Beer appeared for the plaintiff, Michael Lopardo, and Lawyer Couch conducted the defense. The whole morning and part of the afternoon session was occupied in hearing the commonwealth's case alone.

And all this fuss was made over a little Italian "rough house" Sunday evening, the natural consequence of a christening in the afternoon. The christening was held in a house on Furnace street, and several Italians from Walnut street, among them Michael and Nicolo Lopardo and Joseph Gentile, attended. As one of the witnesses said this morning, it was a quiet, orderly affair, there being nothing to drink in the house but a barrel of beer. The only excitement of the afternoon was when Joe Gentile hit Nicolo Lopardo on the jaw in the heat of an argument.

The christening over, the Walnut street contingent started happily for home. They had not gone far, however, when Gentile and the two Lopardos became involved in another argument, Nicolo saw his chance, and got even with Gentile, and Gentile became enraged and hit Michael Lopardo in the jaw. Then all three rushed off to Clerk Cady, clamoring for warrants, as reported in Tuesday's Transcript. The afternoon session of the case came too late to report today. The continued case against Henry Benton for non-support was further continued.

ADVERSE LEGISLATION

Has Greatly Handicapped Our Maritime Interests

PATHWAYS OF THE OCEAN

Seized by Other Nations and Held to Our Exclusion—Senator Frye Says It May Be Exceedingly Dangerous to Our Prosperity

Boston, Nov. 23.—At the clubhouse of the new Algonquin club last evening, the 30th meeting of the Commercial club was addressed by Senator William P. Frye of Maine, whose subject was: "National legislation concerning steamship subsidies, and New England's interest in the country's increasing foreign commerce."

Senator Frye said: "Our country is great, prosperous and powerful. For a few years it has moved forward with the strides of a young giant, and today ranks with the foremost nations of the world, in very many respects outranking many of them. This result has been attained under the policy of protection."

"Nearly every industry has been protected and has prospered. One alone has been handicapped by adverse legislation at home and protection of its competitors abroad. I refer to our ships engaged in foreign trade. We have permitted the other maritime nations, our inferiors in most of these regards, to seize upon the pathways of the oceans of the world and hold them to our exclusion."

"Who carried last year our $2,000,000,000 and a little over of our foreign commerce? We did 8.2 percent. Of our enormous exports we carried 6 percent. We paid the past year $500,000 a day in gold to foreign ships for the carriage of our goods."

"How can this be otherwise than humiliating and mortifying? It is not only humiliating but may be exceedingly dangerous to our prosperity. Suppose Europe should be embroiled in war; that England and Germany, our carriers, should enter upon a conflict at arms. Who would carry our exports of farm, factory and mine products? If carried who would pay the enormous war premiums?"

"Discussion of the causes leading to this lamentable result is necessary only so far as it may be suggestive of remedies. The theoretical free trader subscribes to our policy of protection. "It is not protection which has harmed, but the entire lack of it; the compelling of our ships to compete with those of other maritime nations protected by subsidies, by much lower wages in shipyards and on ships and by a less expensive manner of living."

"The aid given by foreign countries to their shipping must be reckoned with. Eighty percent of all steamships, 14 knots and upward are heavily subsidized. England adopted this method of encouragement a half century ago, and has persisted in it to now."

Here Senator Frye quoted at length statistics showing the sums paid by other countries, and continuing, said: "Are we, rich and prosperous, to submit to such humiliating and dangerous conditions? There are some Americans utterly devoid of sentiment or of patriotic impulse, who can travel the world over and without regret never see the stars and stripes in any foreign port. They say, 'why not employ foreign ships to carry our foreign cargoes and make us rich by our surplus products if they will do it cheap? Do they suppose that such agencies will have the slightest interest in extending our trade?'"

"If our enormous surplus of products can find no market abroad, then stagnation at home, capital without profit, workmen without wages. This surplus will increase from year to year and the necessity for foreign markets increases."

Senator Frye quoted from addresses of President Harrison and President McKinley, in which reference was made to the importance of the merchant marine.

The speaker then told of the introduction into the last congress of his bill for ship subsidies, which he said, in his opinion, was a good measure. He told of the opposition to it and the arguments for and against the bill. In conclusion he said:

"During the congress about to meet I shall persist in my efforts to procure favorable legislation for our merchant navy, and bespeak for such attempt the sympathy of the business men of Boston."

WIDOW HOLDS BRIDGE

Railway Passengers Cannot Use It Unless Company Comes to Terms

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 23.—Mrs. Ellen Moore, widow, took up the role for which Horatius of old became famous, yesterday, by holding a bridge against all comers because she had trouble with a railway company. She was in a defiant mood and caused much inconvenience to people who were returning home from work, and tied up traffic on the Boston and Northern street railway.

The Boston and Maine railroad has been repairing a road bridge in Swampscott, just over the Lynn line, over which are the tracks of the Boston and Northern road. The bridge being impassable for cars, passengers had to walk, and to make their passage from one side of the bridge to the other perfectly secure the steam railway had constructed a temporary footbridge. This bridge went over land belonging to Mrs. Moore, and her compensation had been left by the Boston and Maine road to the street railway company, for the reason that the latter's passengers were being accommodated. Mrs. Moore and the street railway have had friction over the money to be paid for the use of the land. The road, it is understood, settled for $10. Mrs. Moore says she hasn't received $10, and, besides, she thinks the accommodation is worth more than a $10 bill.

Yesterday noon, Mrs. Moore and her daughter swooped down on the footbridge and with sundry lengths of joint blocked the entrances. Then, like Horatius, she guarded the bridge against all comers. Last night, when the electric cars stopped at the entrance to the footbridge, the passengers found Mrs. Moore, her daughter and a young man on guard. They could not get by and were forced to scramble down the steep bank of the Boston and Maine railroad, cross the tracks and then climb up the opposite bank. The result was the electric cars were delayed in returning for half an hour traffic was practically at a standstill. Mrs. Moore is still on guard.

Union to Consider Agreement
Lynn, Mass., Nov. 23.—The strike among the morocco workers of four factories looked near a settlement last night after the state board of arbitration and conciliation had been in conference with representatives of the Glazers' union and of the manufacturers. The settlement actually hinges on the agreement the strikers have made with Thomas H. Kelly & Co. This agreement will be referred to the union tonight. Mr. Kelly can hire or discharge men, but he cannot discriminate against union men. The men, on the other hand, will not attempt to strike the shop. It is thought the union will adopt its committee's suggestions.

BY RUSHING POSTS
Conspectors Thought They Could Take Possession of Yukon Country

Montreal, Nov. 23.—That there was a plot to stir up trouble in the Yukon is officially confirmed by the Canadian government. The story of the plot, based upon official reports to the minister of the interior, is as follows:

About three weeks ago the police at Dawson, under the able direction of Superintendent Woods, shadowed a man whom they deemed a suspicious character. He finally disclosed a plot which he said had been formed by people at Skagway and Seattle. The idea was to rush the posts in the lower part of the Yukon and then take possession of the country. The conspectors reckoned upon the American citizens in the Yukon not assisting the Canadian authorities. News of the plot was quickly sent from Dawson to White Horse and the police there placed under surveillance all suspicious persons. The headquarters of the conspiracy was located at Skagway and it was ascertained who the characters associated with it were and where the papers bearing upon the plot were kept. There was nothing, however, to show any overt act of treason to the United States or Canada, consequently the authorities could not take any proceedings. Canadian officers went down to Skagway and consulted with the United States officers and concerted action was agreed upon in case of necessity. The parties connected with the plot are closely watched meantime. The government officials say 10 respectable Americans were in the plot. Every precaution has been taken and the government has confidence in the police officers.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW
Commerce and Finance Have Made Remarkable Strides

New York, Nov. 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Never before in the history of the United States was there such great reason for a day of national thanksgiving. This country has made unprecedented strides toward a position of international supremacy not only in commerce but also in finance.

To a marked degree business enterprises have proved successful. An idle wheel in mills or factories is the exception, while labor is so well employed at high wages that consumptive demands sustain market values of all staple commodities. Transporting facilities have been unable to keep pace with the nation's requirements, many complaining of tardy deliveries, which alone act as a brake on commercial progress. By closing lake navigation, lower temperature will relieve the railway situation, thousands of cars being restored to inland traffic. This same factor of seasonable weather stimulates retail dealings, and prompt collections swell bank exchanges, which for the week were 30 percent larger than last year at this city and 35.6 percent over 1899, while at other leading cities there were gains of 17.9 and 17 percent respectively. Heavier payment through clearing houses are not due to speculation, as sales of stocks for the week were smaller than a year ago.

Chamberlain's Friends Worried
London, Nov. 23.—The friends of Joseph Chamberlain are concerned as to his health. Yesterday Mr. Chamberlain wrote the Handsworth school, declining to distribute prizes at that institution because, as he said: "It is absolutely necessary for me to confine my strength to public work."

OFFER NOT SUBMITTED

Panama Canal People Protest
Against Commission's Report

WHOLE THING IS "LOADED"

Declaration That $180,000,000 Is Far Too Low a Figure For Construction of Nicaraguan Canal—Points in the Minority Report

Washington, Nov. 23.—Upon the publication in a New York newspaper of what was obviously a condensation of the forthcoming report of the isthmian canal commission, Maurice H. Hutin, president of the Panama Canal company, called on Admiral Walker to protest against the interpretation of his offer which the commission there makes.

The figures, named—$109,141,000—Mr. Hutin says that he not only never submitted but never thought of. A gentleman representing the French company and in close touch with the proceedings, said yesterday afternoon: "When Mr. Hutin was here in May he proposed an arbitration over our canal and was given to understand that this would be a satisfactory proposal for the commission to submit in its final report; when he gets here now he finds an altogether different opinion. The whole thing has been loaded against us. We remonstrated against Admiral Walker's being appointed at the head of the commission when it was organized, as we understand that he was committed to the Nicaragua route which he himself had investigated so shortly before. We have been plying football with from the start, and we should expect nothing different were we now to go before the president or congress with a new and more definite proposal."

"The commission talks about public opinion in this country, as if that had anything to do with the number of cubic metres of excavation by the two routes, and to that public opinion the commission has evidently found a way to yield. Representative Sherman of New York was quoted the other day as saying that he would not give a cent for the Panama route and our property there, and when you have public men so ill-informed as that, what can you expect of this American public opinion that we hear so much about as determining the relative feasibility of the two routes?"

"While we have not given up hope of merging our interests with those of the United States by selling our canal, in any event we confidently rest in the assurance of two things: That the United States will not be foolish enough to build on the Nicaragua route, with the colossal expense which it would involve, and secondly that, with God's help we shall find a way of completing the Panama canal ourselves. All this is understood in Paris. We know there that the estimate of $189,000,000 for building the Nicaraguan canal is pure bluff. It would cost $400,000,000 to build a canal through which ships could go without getting stuck in the mud. The United States will come around to a commonsense view of this thing eventually, but perhaps at some cost."

Nothing is known here to lead one to suppose that the failure to get a definite and reasonable proposition from the French company was due to any prejudice against it by our commission. Neither is there any reason to discredit the estimates of our engineers as to the cost of the two routes.

A New York newspaper yesterday printed parts of the report of George S. Morison of the canal commission, dissenting from his colleagues and favoring the Panama route. He says:

The Panama route has advantages over the Nicaragua route in cost of construction, in cost of operation and in convenience, when done, while its use is less likely to lead to local international complications.

The preliminary engineering has been done at Panama, and the general contingencies have been reduced to a minimum. If 20 percent is added to the estimates to cover "engineering, police, sanitation and general contingencies" at Panama, at least 25 percent, and probably 30 should be added at Nicaragua, the former figure raising the estimate for the Nicaragua route to $201,000,000.

The excavation of the Panama canal has been opened for nearly its entire length, and the character of the material to be removed can be examined in position. At Panama there are fair harbors at both ends fully adequate for all demands during construction and connected by a railroad in high condition, the country is settled and many of the necessary accommodations for a large working force are there.

Mr. Morison then suggests some changes in the existing plans for the Panama canal and with these effected, estimates the cost of completion at $134,000,000, $67,000,000 less than that of the Nicaraguan canal. He finally notes that a Panama canal would be like a boundary strait between North and South America, easily policed and guarded, with no call to acquire territory beyond the limits of the immediate concession.

THE FINAL STEP

Said a close personal friend of President Roosevelt to J. P. Morgan, according to the Boston Journal's Washington correspondent:

"You may be sincere, Mr. Morgan, and you might succeed if you were God, but no human agency except the government of the United States will ever be allowed to own and control the railroads of the United States. There are just two alternatives to this question of transportation, competition or government control. When the people are convinced or have good grounds to suspect that railroad competition is ended, they will insist on government control. The people will submit to great injustice from the railroads while there is competition, but they will not submit to the slightest injustice from railroads under one general management which destroys competition, but will be ever suspicious and find injustice in what may appear to you as absolute justice in rates. You are on most dangerous ground, and if you go forward in this gigantic scheme you will precipitate the greatest political question of the age and bring the federal government face to face with the necessity for government control."

It is the plainest statement of the case that has been made. Consolidation of great railroad interests is a step in the evolution of railway management. But as the Transcript pointed out in a recent comment, it is not the final step. The final step is what was thus pointed out to Mr. Morgan. Not only is the consolidation of the railroads sure to lead to dissatisfaction, but it is putting the railroad interests in better and better shape for the final assuming of control by the government. To attempt government control of the railroads when competition is unchecked would lead to many complications. They are not yet in shape for the final step. But the final step is coming just as surely as the present tendency towards consolidation continues.

WHAT THE CHOICE MEANS

The members of Rev. Dr. Greer's church in New York city are naturally as anxious to retain him as their pastor as the members of the new Western Massachusetts diocese are to secure him for their bishop. Statements that he has decided to remain in New York, when made on the authority of members of the church therefore, will hardly be relied on by the people of this section until Dr. Greer gives his definite answer.

Since the election of Dr. Greer the situation has been widely commented on by the press of the localities interested. The following from a paper outside, the Hartford Courant, will be read with interest locally:

Many men many minds, says the old proverb; and it holds as true of churchmen as of men of the world. Unanimity in the choice of a bishop is as little looked for as unanimity in the choice of the president of the United States, and of that we have but one instance in our history. When, before this week, has any American parish priest been elected without one opposing vote to an office for which he was not a candidate, and in spite of his request to be left out of the balloting altogether? It was a most unusual experience, a compliment extraordinary, a very great and signal honor, that came to David H. Greer day before yesterday. He cannot put it away lightly. If he refuses to become the first bishop of Western Massachusetts, it will be for good and sufficient reasons. Four years ago, to be sure, he said "no" to the Rhode Island churchmen, who were looking for a bishop coadjutor; but this is a different case.

The diocese to which he is called is a new one; the commonwealth is old and historic. If he accepts, he will have under his jurisdiction Worcester, Springfield, Holyoke, Northampton, Greenfield, the Deerfield valley and the Berkshires. If he makes his episcopal visitations in Lenox, Lee and Stockbridge region at the right time of year, he will find himself in what the French call a country of acquaintance. Familiar New York faces and voices will greet him on every side.

His acceptance of the election will involve some sacrifices. St. Bartholomew's is one of the richest, most liberal and in many ways most desirable parishes in New York. It is warmly attached to its rector, and with good reason. It will not part with him cheerfully, and he will not leave it without regret. His dozen years in its service have been very busy and happy years. But men of the Greer class think of other things than their personal wishes in making their decisions.

AN UNWISE STATUTE

With entertaining regularity the state legislature passes a law based on a dreary notion of accomplishing some definite object, but without giving the possible consequences of its enforcement any particular attention. It is customary in such cases, when a law is very absurd indeed and the people recognize it as such, for the proper authorities who might be expected to enforce it, to quietly and unobtrusively pass it by, and in this they are usually upheld by the people. The case of the meat inspection law, however, is one where the proper authorities, being the board of health, have decided to enforce the law to the letter, regardless of consequences. The board of health is amply justified in doing this, the theory being that the only way to have a poor law repealed is to enforce it. It is an interesting fact, however, that reports from many other cities indicate that no attention whatever is being paid to the law.

The enforcement of it in this city is proving a very bad matter, as has frequently been called to attention in the Transcript. In the news columns of yesterday's issue a new phase of it was reported. The farmers of the neighboring towns, finding it impossible to secure the proper branding of the meat they would ordinarily bring to this city for sale, are taking it elsewhere. Their own trade always goes to the city to which their own business calls them, and local merchants are beginning to feel very decided effects from it in loss of custom. They have begun to enter a more emphatic protest than had been done before, and in response to a general demand for it, the board of health has decided to hold a public meeting, at which time some action may be taken looking towards the repeal of the law, or its modification until it is put on a sensible basis.

It is hoped that the protests which have been made will be followed up by attendance at the meeting, and some formal action that will effectively bring before the legislature some knowledge of the unexpected results of this act. Otherwise the protests that are being voiced will have little effect.

Laws for the protection of the public from impure and improper food are wise when they are wisely enacted. But very few branches of legislation have seen more absurd provisions than this, and the latest has proved itself the most absurd of all.

Now the democrats can use the polling places for an evening.

Will the Thanksgiving proclamation be read in all the churches tomorrow?

Mr. Parker, based on last night's returns, may "sit way back, and go down."

Another opportunity to hear an address which none should miss, will be offered Wednesday evening of next week. The date of General Gordon's coming should be held in mind.

It is encouraging to notice some recognition on the part of the street department that the paved streets have been in the most unsanitary condition since the slight snow storm of a week ago.

A Thanksgiving dinner on Greylock's summit ought to be a hearty meal indeed. Few Thanksgiving appetites will be more luxuriant in development than those who have climbed the mountain.

Paris has paved one of its streets with glass, and contrary to the expectation of many, furnishes an excellent foothold and promises to be without dust and not to absorb waste. By the process the inventor has been enabled to utilize all kinds of glass debris.

Down in Pittsfield, fearing that the future will forget their existence as completely as most of the present has never heard of it, they have prepared an account of themselves, sealed it up in a box, and laid it away to be opened in 100 years, if anybody is then living on the site of the city.

It has developed that there really was started a movement on the part of the Klondike miners to overthrow the Canadian government and start a republic. It is also learned that this movement was organized in the form of a secret society called the "Order of the midnight sun." The movement didn't amount to much, the midnight sun being eclipsed by the activity of the Canadian officials. But in 30 or 40 years we shall doubtless have an order of their descendants to be called the "Sons and daughters of the midnight sun" or something of that sort.

What I Live For

I live for those who love me,
Whose hearts are kind and true;
For the heaven that smiles above me,
And awaits my spirit, too;

For all human ties that bind me,
For the task my God assigned me,
For the bright hopes left behind me,
And the good that I can do.

I live to learn their story,
Who suffered for my sake;
To emulate their glory,
And follow in their wake;
Bards, patriots, martyrs, sages,
The noble of all ages,
Whose deeds crown history's pages,
And time's great volume make.

I live to hold communion
With all that is divine;
To feel there is a union
'Twixt nature's heart and mine;
To profit by affliction,
Reap truth from fields of fiction,
Grow wiser from conviction,
And fulfill each grand design.

I live to halt that season
By gifted minds foretold,
When man shall live by reason,
And not alone by gold;
When man to man united,
And every wrong thing righted,
The whole world shall be lighted
As Eden was of old.

I live for those who love me,
For those who know me true;
For the heaven that smiles above me,
And awaits my spirit, too;
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrongs that need resistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that I can do.

THE THEATERS

FOR THANKSGIVING WEEK
Two Big Attractions, a Week of Comic Opera, and a Farce Comedy.
Thanksgiving Matinees

Two productions of more merit than the city has seen for some weeks, a farce comedy for Thanksgiving day, and a week of repertoire in comic opera, are the bookings for the coming week at the theaters. The return of Mildred Holland and the first production here of "The burgomaster," the chief events, while for Thanksgiving day there will be afternoon and evening performances of a comedy at the Richmond and afternoon and evening operas at the Empire. In addition to these, the Richmond will be occupied Wednesday evening with General Gordon's lecture under the auspices of the Grand Army. The list is as follows:

All the week—Columbia comic opera company in repertoire, at the Empire.

Tuesday—Mildred Holland in "The power behind the throne," at the Richmond.

Wednesday—Lecture by General John B. Gordon, under auspices of C. D. Sanford post, G. A. R.

Thursday—"The strange adventures of Miss Brown," at the Richmond.

Friday—"The burgomaster," at the Richmond.

The second week of repertoire of the season will open Monday evening at the Empire. It will be a week of opera instead of dramatic productions, and it is likely to meet with ready welcome. Some of the best known of the comic and light operas will be given, and the usual Saturday matinee given by a special Thanksgiving matinee, at which "Wang," the piece of the opening night, will be repeated. No other matinees will be given. The program of evening performances for the week will be as follows: Monday, "Wang"; Tuesday, "Two vagabonds"; Wednesday, "Bohemian girl"; Thursday, "Fra Diavolo"; Friday, Paul Jones; Saturday, "La Mascotte"; Sunday matinee will be "Rip Van Winkle." The company is said to include nearly 30 people, and to carry a large amount of scenery for the proper presentation of the different operas. Special stress is laid by the management on the elaborate nature of the production of "Wang," in which the huge elephant used by De Wolf Hopper when he was starting in the opera will be used. The principals of the company are: Charlotte Gilman, Claude Amaden, Hazel Davenport, Ed. Gillingham, Franklin Fox, Chas. N. Holmes, Ruth Latimore, John A. Dewey, Lulu Harris, Jerry Desmond, and Walter Baldwin. The company has been in Pittsfield this week, and has been well received there.

"The power behind the throne" at the Richmond Tuesday evening is assured of one of the largest audiences of the season, the advance sale indicating that there will be hardly a vacant seat in the theater. Since the play was first presented here last January it has been as much talked of as any play of the season. It had a good sized audience, and Miss Holland was given five curtain calls after the third act. If the piece has a fault it is that Miss Holland is given the center of the stage to the exclusion of anyone else, but her success in holding it entertainingly was such that no one was disposed to criticize this. It is a four act romantic drama by Theodore Kremer, and founded on Schiller's classic, "Love and Intrigue." The scene is laid in an Austrian province at the end of the eighteenth century. Miss Holland in the leading role portrays Aria, the daughter of a court musician, who is beloved by Baron Ronald. The Duchess Von Waldheim, who is infatuated with the Baron, intrigues to secure his hand in marriage. To accomplish this she has Aria's father imprisoned and her mother put upon the pillory. To save her parents from shame and death, Aria consents to write an incriminating letter, containing expressions of love for another. This letter is now disclosed to Ronald, who, now believing Aria faithless, requests the honor of the Duchess' hand in marriage, and visits Aria with the intention of ending both their lives with poison. Under the influence of the drug, and believing death near at hand, Aria confesses the deception she was compelled to practice, and they apparently die together. It is finally disclosed that the supposed poison was only a sleeping potion, substituted by a devoted orderly. Of course they recover and are united by the aid of the baron's father and Aria is promised in marriage to the man of her choice.

"The strange adventures of Miss Brown" is a farce comedy which was first produced in London, and which two years ago was well received in New York and Boston, since which time it has been on the road. It presents the usual farcical complications, with comedy its prevailing feature, making an attraction likely to do the usual rushing Thanksgiving business.

"The burgomaster," one of the most successful of the musical comedies, which are little different from comic opera, will be seen for the first time in this city when it comes to the Richmond Friday evening. The piece has been playing in Boston much of the season so far, and will be brought here with a company that is promised to contain about 75 people with the changes from the Boston cast. The piece is by Frank Flacey and Gustav Luders, and while they do not call it an opera, it contains 24 original musical selections, some of which have attained much popularity. It is produced with an elaborate scenic setting, and the costumes is a feature. The settings and costumes include those of old New Amsterdam, now New York, in the days of 1660, and the present day city. As for costumes, the press agent claims that the chorus makes 19 distinct changes of costume in each performance, some of the changes being accomplished in less than three minutes. Altogether, the production promises to be one of the biggest and most entertaining of the season, and will undoubtedly be greeted by a large audience. Tickets for it will go on sale Tuesday morning at the Richmond box office.

"At Cripple Creek" was presented at the Empire last evening before a fair sized audience, mostly located in the balcony and gallery. The play tells a story of old, bad men and good Indians and mine owners and other people, with a sensational scene in which the good Indian swings out over a precipice by means of a grape vine and catches a child who is being thrown over it to seeming certain death by the villain. The acting was better than many such pieces are given, and the audience expressed its pleasure throughout the production. Little Miss Beatrice as "Little Totto" sang very well for so very young a person, and M. J. Jordan as the Indian acquitted himself with credit. The play will be repeated this evening.

The attractions for the coming week in the leading New York theaters are as follows: Boston museum, "Sky farm," Boston theater, "The old homestead," Castle Square, "What happened to Jones," Colonial, "When Knighthood was in flower," Hollis "Rogers Brothers in Washington," Park, "Lovers' lane," Tremont, "The Cardinal."

The attractions for the coming week at the leading New York theaters are as follows: Academy of Music, "Way down East," Bijou, "The auctioneer," Broadway, "Sleeping beauty and the beast," Casino, "Little duchess," Criterion, "A royal rival," Daly's, "The messenger boy," Empire, "Second in command," Fourteenth Street, "New England folks," Garden, "If I were a king," Garrick, "A message from Mars," Harlem theater, "Captain Jinks," Herald Square, "The New Yorkers," Knickerbocker, Maude Adams in "Quality street," Lyceum, "A royal family," Madison Square, "The liberty bells," Manhattan, "The unwelcome Mrs. Hatch," Republic, "Under Southern skies," Savoy, "Eben Holden," Wallack's, "Colorado," Weber and Fields, "Holly colly."

Theatrical Notes

"At Cripple Creek" is at the Empire tonight.

The Rays will have a new three-act comedy for next year.

A number two "David Harum" company is being put on the road.

Olive Schriener's "Story of an African farm," has now been dramatized. Margaret Fuller, seen here with John Mason, is now in "The prince of peace" company.

Joseph Jefferson has closed his brief fall tour and will not be on the stage again until spring, when he will play for five weeks.

Denman Thompson while presenting "The old homestead" in Boston, makes his entrance to the stage in the first act driving a yoke of oxen.

"Rogers Brothers in Washington" is playing its second week at the Hollis theater in Boston, where it is duplicating its New York successes.

The very latest in the way of stage sensations is the introduction of a Gatling gun firing 600 shots a minute in a new melo-drama "Roxana's claim."

Walker Whiteside, seen here in "The heart and the sword," opened his new play, "Robert of Sicily" in Dayton, Ohio, last week. It was well received.

Henry Miller in "D'Arcy of the guards" has closed, temporarily, to await the opening of the piece in New York, which will be at the close of the run of "Eben Holden" at the Savoy.

Miss Virginia Earle has resigned from "The New Yorkers" company, to appear in the new "winter garden" to be opened on the roof of the New York theater.

Julia Marlowe in "When Knighthood was in flower" opens at the Colonial in Boston Monday following Virginia Harned's "Alice of old Vincennes." This is the chief change in the Boston houses.

The Dramatic Mirror is authority for the statement that Marguerite Sylva, who has been for two seasons at the company of Kike La Shelle's "Princess Chic" company, and twice seen here, is soon to retire from that company.

Louis Mann and Clara Lipman, soon to play at the Richmond, will not be seen together after this year. Next season Mr. Mann will star in their present play "The red klob." and Miss Lipman will star in their former success, "All on account of Eliza."

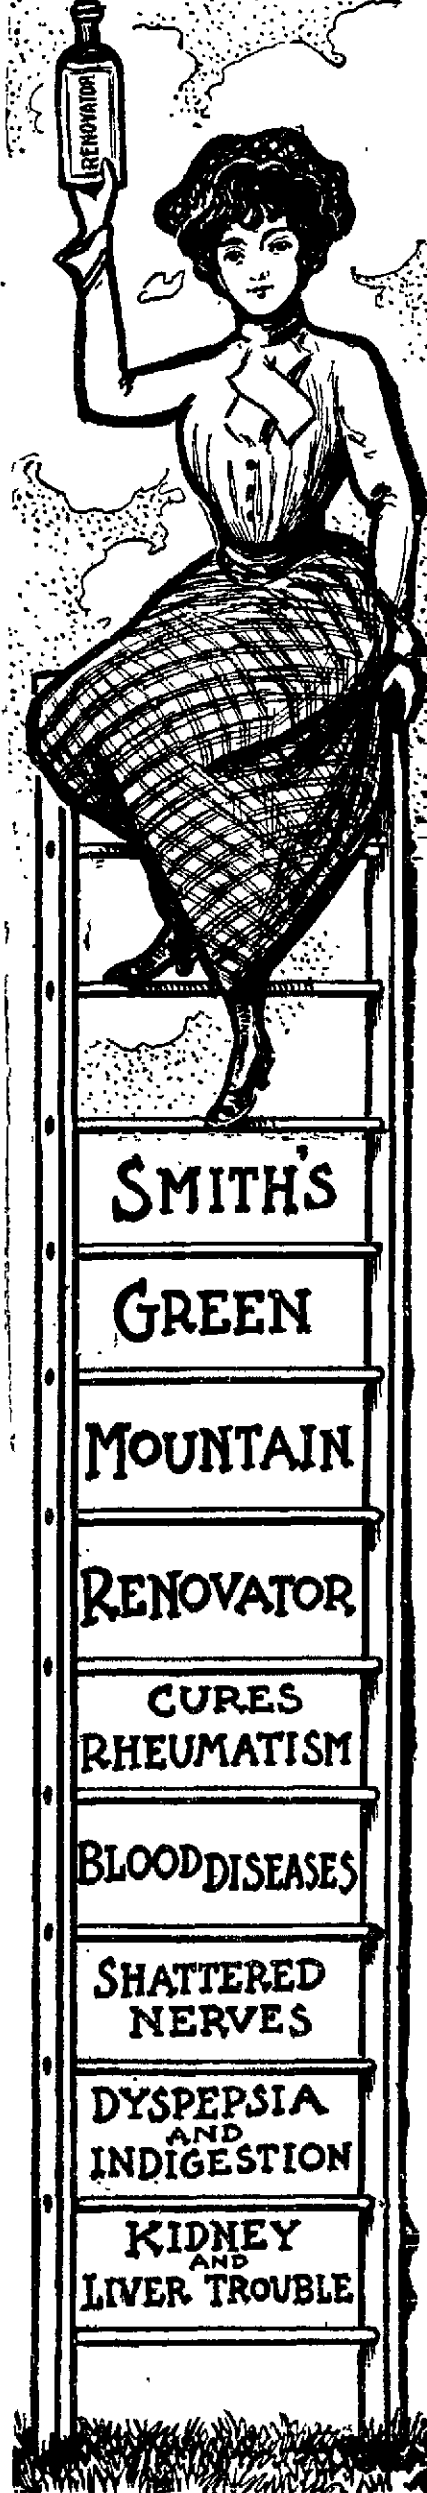

There is only one change in the leading New York theaters this week, Mrs. Fiske closing in "Miranda of the balcony," and putting on her new play, "The unwelcome Mrs. Hatch," written by Mrs. Burton Harrison. Several changes of importance are announced for December 2.

John Mason's tour in "The altar of friendship," closed temporarily in Brooklyn a week ago tonight. He could not secure time in the New York theaters, and decided that it was unprofitable to keep such an expensive company on the road without a New York endorsement. It will probably re-open in New York later.

Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Hughes of New York city has written to William A. Brady to commend "Lovers' Lane," saying that having formerly lived in Lebanon Springs, and seeing that the action of the play was located near North Adams, he went to see it, and found it the most delightful play he ever saw.

"Molly Pitcher," Kathryn Klidder's new play which will probably be seen here later, had already resulted in two accidents. While rehearsing the piece Miss Klidder was stabbed by a slip in the dust scene, and Charles Kennedy of the company was hurt by the explosion of the cannon used in the play. The play opened November 12 in Elizabeth, N. J.

TO EMPLOY INSANITY EXPERTS

Leary's Lawyer Gets Consent of Court for the Expense

Substantially the first step in the defense of the case of Daniel Leary, who is to be tried a week from Monday for the murder of Shop Officer James W. Fuller was taken yesterday before Judge Aiken and came up on a motion of Lawyer Joyner, counsel for the defense. This was an application to Judge Aiken for authority to summon expert witnesses on insanity at the expense of the county. Leary having no money, Lawyer Joyner said that he had notified District Attorney Gardner of his intention to bring up the matter, but there had been no appearance of that officer and there seemed to be no objection. Mr. Joyner said that the time was short and he desired as prompt action as possible, and this view was coincided in by Judge Aiken. The formal order read as follows:

The defense is authorized to employ the expert named in the motion to wit: Dr. J. H. Houston of Northampton, Mass., Dr. Edward Cole of Somerville, Mass., Dr. Henry Colt of Pittsfield, Mass., and the clerk will make a certificate of this authorization and deliver the same to the attorneys for the defense that they may use the same as evidence of their authority for such employment.

Dr. Cole is the superintendent of the MacLean asylum, Dr. J. H. House is the head of the Northampton asylum and Dr. Colt of Pittsfield is the medical examiner for criminal cases and is considered expert on diseases of the nerves and brain. It is intended to have Leary examined and the question of his mental condition decided as soon as possible, this being the only defense which can be offered and it is probable the three will visit the jail in a day or two and examine the man. Leary seems now to be disinterested and his counsel will visit the prisoner in a day or so and talk over the defense with him as far as possible.

Among the jurors drawn from West Stockbridge for the trial is Maurice Bossidy, Bossidy was a complainant in the district court that committed Leary to jail. While on the stand Leary jumped up and assaulted Bossidy and it was on this complaint that Leary was sent to jail. It is probable that Mr. Bossidy will not be allowed to serve on the case.

Kingsley Case Testimony

The trial of the cases of Gertrude Kingsley and Warren Kingsley, administrator, against the Hoosac Tunnel and Wilmington Railroad, was continued in the superior court yesterday at Greenfield. There was considerable testimony offered as to the condition of the tracks immediately after the accident. Among the witnesses was D. T. Oakley of Greenfield, who examined the track and took samples of the ties from points near the switch. The ties were hemlock and badly decayed. George W. Plumb of reengfield, a brother of Mrs. Archie Kingsley, examined the track and looked the engine over the Monday after the accident. He noticed that the ties were badly decayed and that the rails had been newly spiked. There was testimony to the effect that the point of the switch rail was broken and one of the Y rails broken near the frog. Kenneth McPeck, transfer agent for the Hoosac Tunnel and Wilmington railroad, testified to seeing the engine coming round the curve and heard the crash as the accident took place January 11. He saw the fireman struck by the tender as he jumped; also the engineer jump as the engine was tipping over. The point of the switch rail, and the Y rail near the frog were broken and a rail on the main track slightly bent. The court adjourned about 3 o'clock till 2 Monday afternoon.

Union Thanksgiving Services

The union Thanksgiving service this year will be held in the Congregational chapel Thursday forenoon, 10.30. Rev. W. L. Tenney will preach the sermon.

POWNAI ROMANCE

Unromantic Marriage at Williamstown Today of Woman Who Went To Oklahoma

A POWNAI FARMER HER CHOICE

Returned from Her Long Trip Across the Country to Meet Her Fate Among Her Old Neighbors. End of Strange Romance

The little town of Pownal, Vt., is a quiet, peaceful hamlet of but a few hundred inhabitants and occupies but the faintest dot on the map, but it has accomplished what the universe has failed in. It has given to Mrs. Lucy A. Odell-Myers-Stockwell, who now has a Harrington tacked on the end of her name, a third husband, after she had crossed the continent in quest of one, and it stands out today as a veritable gold mine for the unhappy throng of old maids, bachelors, widows, widowers, and even the thrice-dispossessed. Pownal is certainly on the eve of a great boom.

The wedding took place this morning in the town office of Williamstown, and Edmund H. Noel, town clerk and justice of the peace, performed the sacred ceremony which made Mrs. Lucy A. Odell-Myers-Stockwell Mrs. Lucy A. Odell-Myers-Stockwell-Harrington. The groom was William S. Harrington, a Pownal farmer, and it was his second venture in the matrimonial world. The records give his age as 54 and that of his wife as 53. The wedding was solemnized in the presence of a relative, and after it was over the bride party returned to the depot to await the first train to Pownal.

The party arrived in Williamstown on the 9.35 train from Pownal and the unsuspecting would never dreamed that it was a bridal couple. He was clad in a black overcoat, with a derby hat, and she had a stow thrown carelessly about her shoulders. They proceeded from the depot to the office with a business air, and the transactions with the town clerk were wholly upon a business basis. The necessary fees were paid and the ceremony proceeded.

The return to the depot had the same air about it. There was no showing of rice, no multitude of congratulations and no spooning. The groom took the bride immediately to his home in Pownal and it is doubtful if the little Vermont village yet has any knowledge of the wedding.

Thus another chapter is added to a most unusual romance, the former parts of which will be readily recalled. Back in the spring Mrs. Stockwell answered an advertisement in a matrimonial paper and engaged in correspondence with a man who gave his name as E. F. Worick of Wichita mountains, Wicthita, Oklahoma territory.

A correspondence continued and photographs were exchanged. Mr. Worick said that his business would not permit him to come east and asked Mrs. Stockwell to go to Wichita, where he would meet her. The correspondence ripened into an engagement and Mrs. Stockwell began preparations for her western journey.

She packed her trunk and one morning appeared at the Williamstown depot ready for the trip, but illness intervened and before the train came she was a patient in the care of her brother, Jabez Odell, of White Oaks. But she was not discouraged and in August set out for Oklahoma. Worick, who had represented himself as a rich man, was found to be a common everyday farm hand, with patches on his trousers and not a cent in the whole world. Mrs. Stockwell changed her mind, remained long enough to secure money from home for her return, and a few weeks later stepped from a train at the Pownal depot.

Then began the courtship of the Pownal farmer, then the engagement and this morning the wedding. And now the romance must be ended.

ROYAL ARCANUM WON

Defeated the Berkshire Club Bowlers by 135 Pins

The Royal Arcanum bowled over the Berkshire club last night at the Curtis & Hill alleys and had lots to spare. The total score was 2282 to 2147. The Berkshire bowlers think they can prove their superiority yet, nevertheless, and there will probably be a game next Friday night. Boyd, of the Royal Arcanum team was unable to be present, and Sheppard, who holds the record for the alleys took his place. The tabulated score is as follows:

CANDIDATES FOR COUNCIL

A. C. Weber and D. A. Russell Consented To Be Candidates

The fear that it might be hard to secure a good list of candidates for the city council this year, as indications pointed that way for a time, was somewhat dispelled today when friends secured the consent of two excellent men to allow the use of their names.

Early in the year the Transcript had the announcement that friends had suggested Manager David A. Russell of the Windsor print works as a candidate from ward 5, but of late nothing had been heard on the subject. It is announced, this morning, however, that he has consented to take the nomination and that the ward 5 delegates will present his name to the republican convention.

The other candidate is A. C. Weber of Weber brothers shoe manufacturers, whose name will be presented by the delegates from ward 3.

Believe Their Sale a Practical Charity

The Congregational ladies' rummage sale will close tonight. It opened Thursday and has been very successful. A large number of articles of great variety have been disposed of at prices that brought them easily within reach of people who needed them, and the ladies are confident that a great deal of good has resulted. Many articles of clothing that were far from being worn out have been sold at prices next to nothing, and those who bought them have received large value for their money. The ladies are convinced that it is better to get cast-off articles together and sell them in this way than to let them go to waste, and while there is a good deal of work in conducting a sale of this kind they feel well repaid for their efforts.

WILLIAMSTOWN

OVERCOME BY GAS EXPLOSION.

Acetylene Gas Machine Explodes and Harry Fitzgerald is Rendered Unconscious.

The acetylene gas machine in the basement of the Cosmo block on Spring street exploded last night about 5 o'clock and Harry Fitzgerald was rendered unconscious for nearly an hour. A mass of flames burst from the machine with the explosion, but the prompt action on the part of William Fitzgerald, who happened to be near, and Anton Ruether, proprietor of the block, prevented a fire. An alarm was sounded from box 43 on the street, but the services of the fire company were not needed and the men were stopped on their way to the scene. Harry Fitzgerald was taken into the Williamstown laundry and did not revive until nearly 6 o'clock.

The cause of the explosion cannot be determined, since it came without warning. Mr. Ruether and Mr. Fitzgerald, who is employed in the People's market, were in the basement looking after the machine when the flames began to pour from a waste pipe and the explosion followed. Mr. Ruether was nearer the machine and in an enclosure, and Mr. Fitzgerald was aiding him to escape when overcome. The basement was instantly enveloped in smoke and the men escaped from the enclosure with some difficulty. William Fitzgerald rushed to their assistance and smothered the flames with blankets, which were with in easy reach.

Harry Fitzgerald was taken to the laundry, where, after speaking once, he lapsed into utter unconsciousness. Several messengers were sent for physicians, but much difficulty was experienced in finding one and it was not until after the young man had regained consciousness that Dr. Mather and Dr. Howard arrived. The proprietors of the laundry, Messrs. Daly, and several others employed every means known to them to revive Mr. Fitzgerald, but it was some time before there was any response. When the physicians arrived they found the pulse slow, but they gave assurance that there was no danger.

Mr. Fitzgerald was not burned, but his condition was due to the concussion and fright.

MAIL RECEPTACLE WANTED AT DEPOT.

Because of the closing of the Station postoffice three nights a week and distance to the depot from the postoffice, a desire for a mail receptacle at the depot has been expressed and an endeavor will be made to have the matter brought before the proper authorities with hopes that a box will be supplied. Mail clerks on the trains would collect the mail from the box while the trains are standing at the depot and the box would be a great convenience. A very large number of letters are mailed on the trains and very often the railroad employees are asked to mail parcels by people going through on trains on which there is no mail car or people who do not care to wait for the train. This arrangement is quite unsatisfactory, since oftentimes the trains are late or the employees, who have enough work of their own to attend to, forget to deposit the mail. It is believed that the postal authorities will recognize the justice of the wish of the people and supply the box.

SPECIAL MEETING IN WHITE OAKS.

Special meetings are being held in the chapel in White Oaks under the interdenominational movement of the country. The services have been held every meeting of the present week, and will conclude with a last meeting Sunday evening. Rev. J. V. Stryker has had charge of the meetings and has been assisted by Rev. W. W. Curtis of West Stockbridge and Rev. Mr. Gould of Lanesboro. Miss Anna Thomas, a county missionary, has also assisted in the services. All have spoken at the evening meetings and have visited people in the locality during the day. Much interest has been taken in the series and the attendance has been large every night.

PREPARATIONS FOR RURAL DELIVERY.

The receptacles for mail for the rural delivery route, with the official United States mail boxes for depositing mail, arrived at the postoffice yesterday, and will be placed along the route next week. The individual boxes are regarded by the government the same as its own boxes and meddling with them will be as serious an offense as if they were furnished by the government. In order that there may be no reason for ignorance in this respect, Postmaster Eldridge will have cards printed, giving extracts of the law pertaining to this. These cards will be tacked over the boxes along the route.

TOMORROW'S CHURCH SERVICES

The pulpit in the Baptist church, both in the central and south missions, will be occupied tomorrow by Harry Everitt, a member of the freshman class of Williams college and a Troy, N. Y., boy. Rev. Mr. Whitaker will preach in St. John's church in the absence of the rector. The college preacher will be Rev. W. K. Hall of Newburgh, N. Y. The fourth of the series of life-work meetings of the college Y. M. C. A. will be held in the evening and Dr. William R. Williams of New York city will speak on "Medicine as life-work." The last of a series of special meetings will be held in the White Oaks chapel.

CASES WILL BE CONTINUED.

It is expected that the several cases of North Adams people against the town of Williamstown which are the outcome of the highway accident on the back road to Blackinton last winter, will be continued to the next session of the superior court. The present sitting will end next week, and there are several other cases on the docket ahead of the ones against Williamstown. As these cases, whether tried singly or together, will doubtless occupy much time, they could not be disposed of within the time remaining for the civil sitting.

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS.

Miss A. Belle Smith has rented

Pach's photographic studio for the purpose of holding there classes in drawing, painting and modelling. This afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock, the second of a series of teas was given in the studio by Miss Smith and specimens of Miss Smith's work were exhibited. In addition to a number of landscapes, fall and summer studies in and about Williamstown were shown. The studio makes a splendid place to exhibit the pictures and give instruction.

REPORTS OF ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

The report of the field and track association of the college for the year 1900-1901 shows a balance of $245.25. The report of the baseball manager for the season of 1901 shows a balance of $1067.97 above expenses. The balance sheet of Dr. Henry Lafavour, graduate treasurer of the athletic council shows a balance on hand of $2713.35. ## FRENCH PROFANITY.

The Experience of a Man Who Tried to Learn It.

Herman Knickerbocker Viele, author of "The Inn of the Silver Moon," gives an amusing account of his efforts to acquire French profanity. Upon his first visit to the land of the lively Gaul, he was provided with a vocabulary that served its purpose only so long as things went well. When things went ill, he found himself without a natural outlet for his feelings. Accordingly he set to work to find out what Frenchmen say when they are "mad."

The first experiment was at a restaurant, when from a neighboring table he overheard a slight dispute between the waiter and a guest. The guest had ordered a small bottle of red wine, and the waiter had brought a large bottle of white wine.

"I do not want it," said the guest. "I am sorry," said the waiter, "but monsieur must drink it, for, unfortunately, the cork is drawn."

Mr. Viele waited breathless for the explosion. "This," said the Frenchman, bringing his hand down with violence to the table, "is very extraordinary!" C'est bien extraordinaire—no more—and the waiter quailed before it. The traveler made a note of the expression and uses it still when much provoked, but he waited several days for another lesson.

This came on the top of an omnibus. All the seats were taken, but a stout man insisted upon climbing up. At first he contented himself with wabbling from one pair of feet to another, but presently he attempted to insert himself between a slender person and his wife. The slender one bore this in silence until a more vigorous wriggle on the part of the intruder knocked off his hat. Then, goaded past endurance, he exclaimed, "Monsieur est un porc!" The stout man climbed down abashed by merited rebuke, and the traveler made another note.

This was not encouraging, but Mr. Viele did not give up hope till one day he nearly was run down by a cab, and, having no "cuss word" at hand, he raised his cane and gave the offender a sharp rap on the shoulders. It was a rash act, that might have brought trouble, but apprehension faded before the joy of promised knowledge. The cabman lashed his horse and, going, turned across his shoulder to make a face.

"Soiled pig!" he called back angrily. The novelist gives these as his reasons for believing the French unequal to the demands of golf.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A few drops of turpentine in hot starch add luster to ironed linen.

If the ceiling becomes smoked from a lamp, wash off the blackened surface with a little weak soda water.

Drain pipes should be regularly cleaned at least once a week with lime-water, carbolic acid or chloride of lime.

If your bath sponge is sticky, let it soak for awhile in water to which a little household ammonia has been added.

A lump of arrowroot tied in a thick cotton rag and boiled with linens and cottons imparts an odor to them that is pleasing.

It is said children's or any clothing can be made noninflammable by rinsing them after washing in a solution of alum and water and that if they then come in contact with flame they will only smolder.

Wood pulp is said to make an excellent water dressing for wounds, for the reason that it absorbs a large quantity and holds it well, evaporation being slow. It also retains heat well, so that it is serviceable for both cold and hot poultices.

When a blood vessel is severed or cut in the arm or leg, a tourniquet should be made of a handkerchief with a knot in it tightly twisted so that the knot covers the artery or main blood vessel. When the blood stops flowing, the pressure should cease.

He Had the Money.

A western millionaire who made a fortune out of mines and who was remarkable alike for his liberality and for his ignorance of his bank account, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, was asked one day to contribute to an object of charity. The canvasser suggested that $1,000 would be an acceptable contribution.

"That is enough," replied the capitalist. "I will give you five thousand if I have the money in the bank. Wait until I call up and inquire."

He summoned a clerk and told him to telephone to the bank to inquire if he had $5,000 on deposit, as he desired to contribute that sum, if possible, to a worthy object. The clerk returned and reported that the bank advised that he had $300,000 in the bank.

"Dear me," cried the capitalist, "as much as that! Well, make out that check for five thousand dollars."

CLERICAL ANECDOTES.

How the Parson Is Sometimes Worsted by the Layman.

He very occasionally gets it in church, as in the classic case instanced by the late Dean Ramsay, who relates that on a sultry summer Sunday afternoon a country congregation felt and yielded to the temptation to drowsiness with a remarkable unanimity. Almost the only person apparently wide-awake was the village idiot, who sat in the front of the "loft," with steady gaze fixed on the minister. Singling him out as an example, the parson sharply rebuked his flock for their sleepiness. "Why," he exclaimed, "even the poor afflicted one, Daft Jamie, as ye call him, can manage to keep awake."

"Aye, but, minister," retorted Jamie, not quite comprehending the situation, but dimly resenting the sudden publicity given to his doings, "if I hadna been an idiot I wad ha' been sleepin' too."

In a small church in Yorkshire well known to the writer one of the most regular and attentive attendants was a countryman who always closed his eyes to listen to the sermon. It helped him to think, he used to say, and that he really listened no one who undertook to question him about the discourse could doubt. On one occasion when the pulpit was occupied by a youthful cleric, from a neighboring place there came a pause in the sermon. Suspecting what it meant, but not troubling to open his eyes, old John said: "The can ger on wi' thy preachin'. I'm noan asleep."

Out of church the parson sometimes receives a "basty one" deliberately administered. I regret to say that my own grandfather once, in a moment of angry outspokenness, likened his vicar—in the presence of that worthy—to the guidepost at the cross lanes in the parish; "for," said the irate and blunt old man, "it points people the road, but doesn't travel in it itself."

The astonished vicar was too much taken aback to reply while his canon was within hearing, or he might have made the retort which was made by a Kentish clergyman to a similar charge. "What!" said he. "Why, you're never content. Here I tell you what you ought to do on Sunday and show you what you ought not to do the rest of the week. What more do you want? You're never satisfied."—Chambers' Journal.

THE KIND YOU HAVE ALWAYS BOUGHT.

THE MANUFACTURERS of Castoria have been compelled to spend thousands of dollars to familiarize the public with the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. This has been necessitated by reason of pirates counterfeiting Castoria. This counterfeiting is a crime, not only against the proprietors of Castoria but against the growing generation. Mothers should be careful to see that Castoria bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher if they would guard the health of their children. Parents, and mothers in particular, ought to remember that the wrapper of every bottle of genuine Castoria bears the signature of Chas. H. ### ST. THOMAS CHURCH FAIR.

One of the largest attendances yet had at the St. Thomas church bazaar was that of last night. The entertainment was by the F. M. T. A. of this town who secured talent from North Adams society to give a concert. The city society and many other friends attended and the concert was one of the best. After the concert dancing was enjoyed. Beginning tonight the articles will be awarded and the fair will close next Monday night when a short entertainment will be given and all articles awarded. ### "TWO LITTLE WAIFS."

Criticizing the production of "The two little waifs" which is the attraction at the local opera house. Thanks giving eve the Holyoke Telegram says: "Two little waifs" was a hit from the start and as scene after scene of startling beauty was unfolded applause was not spared. Act one shows a scene on the Hudson river with moving clouds and rising moon. The setting of act 4 was especially pretty showing a street scene on Christmas eve. But the finest scene of all was the last which was a faithful reproduction of "The little church around the corner" on New Year's eve in a snow storm.

The company is an excellent one in every respect. Miss Helen Carroll played the difficult role of Nell and Della admirably. The comedy parts were played by Miss Edna Bennig and Jag. T. McElherra, two clever artists. They were funny without overdoing it and pleased the house immensely. Worthy of special mention for effective work are A. Sully Grinnel, Frank T. Wallace, Charles H. Gardner, Francis Preslot and the Lamb children. These latter, won the unstinted applause of the house by their pretty acting as the two little waifs, moving it to tears.

NOTRE DAME BAZAAR

Tonight will be the last night of Notre Dame church bazaar in the old French church. The entertainment last night was pleasing. The voting contest for the meerscham pipe was decided. Mr. S. Laurent won with $2.15 and P. O. Gratton had $46.10. The remaining articles will be awarded this evening and these awards have been made: Pictures, Miss G. Desautels; ton of coal, J. S. Desautels; barrel of ale, Josephine Beauchemin; lady's shoes, Mary Le Beau; five pounds of coffee and the same of tea, Mrs. M. A. Menard; woolen cape, Joseph Gravel; parlor lamp, H. Gosselin; barrel flour, P. Dowd; parlor chair, J. A. Rousseau; sheets and pillow cases, Miss Salina LeRiche; box of cigars, Edward Werthly of North Adams; silk umbrella, Joseph Courtot; 10 cigars, Miss Colla Verreoneau; ladies' shoes, Fred Gernache; pair of blankets, Joseph Buch; men's shoes, Frenne Trotter; knives and forks, L. ## SUFFERED

PERMANENTLY CURED BY HYOMEI

Ashway, R. I., Dec. 26, 1890. Dear Sirs—No one can imagine how terribly I suffered from catarrh for years, not only from the disease itself, but from the irritation when in the company of friends or strangers. I used your new treatment for a short time only, it effected a complete cure, and what is better yet, the disease has not returned. I most emphatically recommend Hyomei to all sufferers from catarrh.

CHAS. J. RUDLONG Since the endorsement of Hyomei by the legitimate medical profession, the death rate from catarrh, pneumonia and consumption has decreased 75 per cent. To further decrease this death rate during the coming winter, thousands of books containing government statistics and U. S. Health Reports, will be distributed from house to house in all large cities.

These statistics and reports show how utterly impossible it is to cure these diseases with any other remedy and every man, woman and child in the country should understand that coughs, catarrh, bronchitis and consumption cannot exist where it is used daily.

PARKER DEFEATED

His Only Victory Was On Ward Committee In
Ward I Caucus

REGULAR TICKET VICTORIOUS

Ballot Box Stuffing in Ward 7. Beaver Ticket Turns the Tables on Old Rivals in Ward 4. Large Attendance in All Wards

The republican caucuses last night were very largely attended, there being a total of 864 votes cast in the seven wards, with ward 4 having the largest attendance, 185. Ward 1 was a close second with 182 and the interest in the results was shown by the attendance of 80 and 74 voters in wards 3 and 5 respectively, where there were no contests and only one ticket to vote upon.

It was not John Parker's night. He had tickets in the field in wards 1, 2, 6 and 7, but his single victory was in the election of his ward committee in ward 1, where his list was victorious by a vote of 116 to 68. But even in this ward his list of delegates to the majority convention was defeated by a vote of 109 to 72.

In ward 2 the vote was: Regular or city committee ticket 78, Parker ticket 28; in ward 6, regular ticket 100, Parker 28; in ward 7, regulars 72, Parker 32. In ward 1 the only contest was for delegates to the city convention, there being no opposition to the regular ward committee ticket.

Stuffed the Ballot Box
An unpleasant feature of the ward 7 contest was the fact that when the counters had finished their work it was found that 10 more ballots had been cast than there were voters' names checked. It was evident that some one had tried to affect the result by unlawful and criminal methods, but the margin was so large there was no occasion for an inquiry into who had done the crooked work, and the result stands as declared.

In ward 2, the vote given above is the vote for members of the ward committee. On delegates to the convention there were four more votes for the Thayer or regular ticket and four less for the Parker ticket.

Beaver Ticket Won in Ward
In ward 4 there was a contest of strictly local character, however, having no bearing on the contest in the four other wards. It was over members of the city committee and the interest in the contest is shown by the large attendance of voters, which was 185.

The Beaver ticket, so-called, that was defeated by about 50 votes last year, turned the tables this year and won by a vote of 180 to 83. The names on the ticket that was beaten were Charles B. Jerome, Jacob Roy, and Wallace Keane.

There were two candidates for secretary of the caucus in this ward, J. Andrew Cleghorn being beaten by Thomas E. Conlon.

The results in the various wards were as follows:

The Caucus Results:
Ward 1—Chairman, Edward Davies; secretary, Ozro Carpenter; delegates, John E. Davies, N. B. Flood, Edward J. Hughes, Frank Ransford; ward committee, Edison L. Amadon, John E. Phelps, William H. Crews.

Ward 2—Chairman, P. H. Smith; secretary, George W. Rowley; delegates, Perry M. Farley, Peter McPhail, Dwight White, John N. Towle; ward committee, James Whitely, Alex. Craswell, Abraham L. Lockwood.

Ward 3—Chairman, C. P. Niles; secretary, F. D. Allen; delegates, Chas. C. Fisher, Albert Franchère, George A. Hastings, Edwin Butterworth; ward committee, Eugene D. Nixon, John J. Eagan, Walter B. Deming.

Ward 4—Chairman, Thomas A. Mori; secretary, Thomas E. Conlon; delegates, Edward J. Godfrey, R. J. Stratton, Joseph Saulnier, Jr.; ward committee, Henry Hulbert, Dolphus Giroux, Wm. D. McPherson.

Ward 5—Chairman, F. H. Whitney; secretary, H. P. Drysdale; delegates, George P. Lawrence, Elmer A. Hewitt, Jesse Hadfield, Andrew Potter, W. H. Fitchard; ward committee, C. L. Frink, W. B. Arnold, J. T. Potter.

Ward 6—Chairman, Henry A. Tower; secretary, A. J. Witherell; delegates, C. Q. Richmond, Harry C. Bliss, John F. Conlon, Oliver P. Roy; ward committee, Robert Gardner, Benj. T. Magenis, Edward Beissau.

Ward 7—Chairman, George H. Winslow; secretary, James H. Grimes; delegates, Frank R. Evans, Peter Plant, Chas. W. Dennett; ward committee, John W. Purcell, W. F. Gaudette, A. M. Nichols.

Democratic Caucuses Tonight
The democratic caucuses will be held in all the wards tonight. At this time no contests are known of, though there has been some talk of new tickets in several of the wards for members of the city committee. A few contests, may, therefore, develop by the time the balloting begins.

The majority convention delegates will all be for the nomination of John H. Mack.

There is also the possibility of the development of contests over delegates because of rival ambitions for nominations to the council.

Enlarge the Club Membership
The Thimble club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. W. W. Becket on Marion avenue. It was voted to raise the limit of membership from 25 to 30, thus bringing the club to its original size, and in accordance with the decision five new members were admitted.

To Inspect Other Posts
Assistant Department Inspector George S. Stockwell of Sanford post will inspect Hopkins post of Williams town Monday night, and Sayles post of Adams Tuesday night. A good delegation of the post will accompany him to both places.

AT THE IDELEWILD.
Thanksgiving day in the country, a target snoot in the morning at which there is sure to be lots of sport, followed by an old fashioned dinner, turkey, young roast pig, mince pie, English plum pudding, etc., etc., is to be the program at the Idlewild, Nov. 23.

GIRLS PLAY BASKETBALL

Drury Girls Trying to Make the Team, But Some Games Will Not be Played

The Drury girls have again donned "gym suits" and are now out hustling for positions on the various basketball teams. The girls have taken up the game enthusiastically this year and it looks as though the school would be represented by a good team. Yesterday 15 candidates reported at the Mark Hopkins gymnasium and put in some good hard practice. This year the girls have adopted what is known as the "Smith college game," a form of basketball which requires six players on a side instead of five, and obviates a good deal of the roughness of the regular game.

No schedule of games has been arranged as yet, but it is believed that there will be teams enough formed in the city to make an interesting season. The game with the girls of the Pittsfield high school has been given up entirely, because the faculty has made a rule against games with teams from out of town.

Besides the regular school team, the freshmen and sophomores will each have a team of their own and class feeling will add a new element of excitement to the game when these two teams get together.

MAUDE MCGREGOR WON

Took Race in Three Straight Heats on a Slow Track

The horse race at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon called a good number of local horsemen together. The race was between two pacers, Edmund Vadnais' "Maude McGregor" and Charles Smith's "Homer H." The purse was $100. The weather was pleasant, but the track was in poor condition, as it had been frozen hard the night before and was very wet and slippery as it thawed out. The Vadnais mare was driven by Stephen Hanson and Mr. Percy of Hoosick Falls, N. Y., held the reins over Smith's horse. The Vadnais mare had things all her own way and won the race in straight heats but owing to the condition of the track the time was slow, being 2:46, 2:46 and 2:39. There was considerable betting and quite an amount of money changed hands. If the track had been in proper condition the time would undoubtedly have been much better as both horses have records better than 2:27.

OBITUARY

Josh J. Ball

Noah J. Ball formerly of this city, died yesterday morning at West Halifax, Vt., aged 65 years. His death was caused by pneumonia, with which he had been sick but a short time.

Mr. Ball was for many years a resident of this city, where he is well remembered. He enlisted here in 1864 in Co. D, 61st Massachusetts regiment, and served till the close of the war. After the war he made his home here for quite a number of years, working at his trade as a carpenter. He was a native of Athens, Vt. He was a member of C. D. Sanford post, G. A. R., which he joined in 1885. Some years ago Mr. Ball located at West Halifax, where he conducted a general store and did a good business. He was an upright, honest and obliging man and a good citizen and was highly respected by all with whom he was acquainted. He leaves a widow.

The funeral will be held tomorrow and the body will be taken to Athens, Vt., for burial.

Camp's Concert and Dance

The concert and dance held at Grand Army hall last night by Lincoln camp, Sons of Veterans, was attended by about 50 couples. The concert program, which was published in this paper Thursday, was well rendered. Those who took part were Maurice Phillips, William F. Smith, John Merritt, William Cummings, and the quartet of the Williamstown camp, composed of Edgar Noyes, Allie Williams, Clayton Bryant and Captain George Bryant. The quartet sang finely as did all the others, and the selections were received with enthusiasm. John Merritt did some dancing as well as singing, and the entire program was thoroughly enjoyed. At the close of the concert there was dancing till 12 o'clock, music being furnished by the Ideal orchestra. It was a successful event and afforded much pleasure to the members of the camp and their friends.

Encampment Entertains Guests

Wells encampment, I. O. O. F., worked the royal purple degree on two candidates last night, the Hoosick Falls, N. Y., encampment being present as guests. There was a good attendance and there was a good time with interest by all. At the close of the ceremonies a turkey supper was served by the Rebekah lodge, and about 60 people sat down to the tables. The supper was one of much excellence and added much to the pleasure of the evening. Speeches were made by visitors and members, and there was dancing. The Hoosick Falls party went home on the 11 o'clock train well pleased with the way in which they had been entertained. The occasion was a very pleasant one for the members of the encampment and the friends who were with them.

Sanford Post Inspected

The annual inspection of C. D. Sanford post, G. A. R., took place last night at the post rooms in the memorial building. The inspecting officer was Post Commander W. L. Crozier of E. P. Hopkins post, Williamstown, assistant department inspector. He found the affairs of the post in excellent condition, and the work was admirably done. At the close of the inspection the inspecting officer made a short address, in which he complimented the post on its good condition. Crackers, cheese and coffee were then served and a short time was passed in a social way. Commander Moie and about a dozen comrades from Sayles post of Adams were present, and there were also a few from Hopkins post, Williamstown.

ENDEAVOR BANQUET

All Protestant Denominations Represented at the Gathering Last Night

CHURCH UNITY WAS THE THEME

Rev. Dr. Sawyer on the Inspiration of the Preacher to Personal Work. A. E. Hall Speaks, Local Pastors on Church Fellowship

Co-operation among the Christian workers in the city was the prevailing sentiment last night in the Congregational chapel when the Christian Endeavor society entertained the Christian Endeavor convention committee with a banquet. There were about 150 present, and all of the protestant denominations in the city were well represented.

The chapel was decorated with red and white bunting, the colors of the society, and at one end, over the balcony, hung a large banner of red and white combined with purple, the color of the local branch. Vases of pink carnations added very much to the attractiveness of the tables. The banquet itself had been carefully arranged by a committee, under the direction of Miss Annie A. Butler, and prepared by the ladies of the church, and it was thoroughly appreciated by the guests. When the tables had been cleared, there was speaking for an hour and a quarter, and as the evening progressed the spirit of informality and goodfellowship was more and more in evidence.

William Ritchie, president of the society, acted as toastmaster, and after a few introductory remarks as to the purpose of the banquet, that is, to show the society's appreciation of the way in which the other churches co-operated with them in the recent convention, he introduced Rev. Dr. Sawyer of Williamstown as the principal speaker of the evening. Dr. Sawyer's subject was personal work in relation to preaching. The preacher must first of all be human, he said. To be truly helpful he must have an understanding of human nature, especially the human nature of his community, and sympathize with it. Every community has its own individual character, and the sermons which take this character into consideration are the helpful ones. But to understand men we must associate with them and enter into a knowledge of the problems with which they have to deal from their various points of view. There is a great deal of preaching which does not deal with these problems, and some of the finest sermons ever preached come under this class, but they are not the sermons needed today. Personal work among the laity should be the normal outgrowth of work in the pulpit. The pulpit should be the inspiration to personal work. People should go to church with the idea of translating what they get personally into life and speech. The great aim of personal work is to help some other soul to decide its belief in Christianity, and this decision is more often brought about by personal work than by direct divine influence. God never does his utmost until all creative agencies have done their utmost. This work can only be accomplished by a deep enthusiasm on the part of the worker. If we have an all pervading love for the savior ourselves, we soon learn to lead others to love him.

After a well received solo by Miss Blythe, A. E. Hall of Williamstown was introduced. He spoke along the lines of needs in religion at the present time, and began by drawing a picture of the ideal Christianity of today. He said that the ideal Christians of former times were not the men needed now. We need broad, full-blooded and full-hearted men. The question is, how are we to bring men up to that standard. We are doing it to a large extent in the public schools. The basic principle is the building up of character, and we must not let our study of the relation of Christ's life to social questions overshadow this. The foundation of a strong character is the belief in a personal God. There is at present a tendency towards agnosticism. We are losing the old ideal of God, and with it the Christian heroism and spirit of self-denial is dying out. This spirit must be revived.

Rev. Mr. Tenney referred in a few words to united church work, and following a solo by Thomas McTigh, the chairman called upon the various pastors of the city for remarks. Rev. J. C. Tabbits spoke of our relation to God as his children, and expressed his belief that the Christian Endeavor convention had made a good impression on the city at large. Rev. J. H. Spencer followed with a mingling of seriousness and humor. He referred to the elevated sentiments expressed as a balloon ascension without the element of gas. Rev. J. A. Hamilton tried to pull the balloon down a little, and Rev. A. E. Wright poked fun at Mr. Hamilton. Rev. Alice K. Wright said that in view of our relation to God as his children we should not lose sight of our relation to each other as brothers and sisters. She believed that the present gathering was the indication of a coming church union. Superintendent I. F. Hall then summed up the principal ideas expressed throughout the evening, and the company broke up after singing "Blest be the tie that binds."
